DIASEN is an Italian company in the sector of sustainable construction materials. It was founded in 1985 in Sassoferrato by Mr Floriano Mingarelli, a forerunner in the field of chemical engineering. It is now headed by his son Diego, who has been able to utilise at its best his father's inheritance and intuition. Foreseeing the inevitable changes due to occur in the construction industry, Diego has directed his manufacturing choices towards more innovative products, with a lower environmental impact, without compromising their high standard and technological qualities.

Nowadays Diasen manufactures thermal and acoustic insulation, waterproofings, coatings for public, residential and industrial buildings, as well as sport facilities.

Diasen brand is synonymous of Guarantee, Innovation and Premium Quality, in Italy as in the rest of the World.

All Diasen products are characterised by outstanding performance and green credentials. Infact they are designed to improve the conditions of life in the environment closer to people: their homes. The aim is to protect them from high levels of humidity and thermal losses, using the same methods adopted in Nature. Diasen has gathered cork, clay and diatomaceous earth for their thermal and acoustic insulation properties, along to their hygroscopic characteristics. Then has added natural hydraulic lime, in order to offer a guarantee of efficient, healthy and long lasting products.

In 1994 LZF started designing and manufacturing hand-made wood-veneer lamps from a small studio in Valencia's historic centre. Since that time LZF has grown to become one of the world's most respected boutique lighting companies. Despite his growth, some things never change. They still call Valencia home (although they've moved out of their studio and into a charming old winery). They still make everything from hand. And they still believe nothing diffuses light as beautifully as natural timber-veneer.

LZF's annual catalogue has become a must-have publication, brimming with inspirational, as well as aspirational, photography. The catalogue is a valuable resource for architects and designers looking to utilise their lamps.

They're also proud of the advent of our new lifestyle magazine. Launched this year, the magazine captures the essence of LZF and the people who choose to live with our lamps.

For the past 20-years LZF's team has enjoyed all the challenges, the ups and downs, the friendships forged, and the sheer act of creating beautiful light. They hope the next two decades are just as exciting.

OIKOS designs and manufactures tailor-made safety doors with high performance and a refined design, typically Made in Italy. Since 1990, the Venetian company, based in Gruaro, has been known as a market leader in the high-end segment.

Oikos, which means “house” in Greek, is the company’s name, chosen right because Oikos wants to interact with the houses and, in particular, with the families and people who live there. Oikos creates its products right for them and people are actually the focus, core and strength that have made this company successful over the years.

The production, with very high performances, is certified as Class 3 and 4 for break-in resistance, acoustic insulation, thermal resistance, and air, water and wind tightness. All stages of production take place in hose. This is a strength that allows the realization of a unique safety door of special design, entirely Made in Italy.

Oikos safety doors are the result of over twenty years experience, innate craft skills, continuous technological research, a careful design and the ability to select the countless materials that, once assembled, bring to light an Italian front door that is durable, safe and reliable over time. The hallmark of Oikos is the extreme customization of its safety doors.

The company, in fact, interacts and liaises closely with architects and designers, listening to their needs and acting as the main reference entity in the field of safety doors.

LIGNUM VENETIA makes prestigious wood floors searching in the Venetian tradition the old manufacturing processes that, associated to a constantly evolving technology, produce unique aesthetic effects enhancing the warmth, personality and features of the different woods, pursuing an increasingly rigorous environment and health respect.

A three layers construction and the accurate choice of materials makes these floors extraordinarily durable in time.

LIGNUM floors are valuable products processed and handcrafted: the floors can be planed, brushed, carved, unstructured, worked with ancient tools conveying to the wood signs and atmosphere of former times, wear and tear and pattering of real-life.

Nine essences, two collections: a proposal that comes from the creativity and love for wood, attempting to mediate between the rediscovery of traditional and the impulse towards innovation, giving the customer the opportunity to create a product designed to fully satisfy one's aesthetic taste.

The use of components that are environmentally friendly and the purchase of raw materials from certified sources, or regulated by controlled reforestation, demonstrates the great respect and attention that Lignum Venetia has towards the environment, nature and human kind.

Choosing Lignum Venetia floors means being a real lover of wood and traditions.

SAV2000 is specialized in insulated glass window, stratified glass window and traditional glass production for construction and furniture production companies.

Sav2000 started its activity in 1968 in a small craftsmen laboratory and have become the first manufacturing company to propose and produce insulated glass windows.

An over thirty year activity allows SAV2000 to fully acknowledge customer's needs and therefore, supply them with the most interesting technologically advanced novelties.

Sav2000 produces a new series of glass called EVO with a lamination of the soft film of several materials inside two glasses. This particular union allows to create security rigid panels with unique technical features. It can be used for various applications both inside or outside the building, also with curved glasses where its solidity and translucency features offer the designers innumerable chances.
